[illegible] CONSERVATIVE M. C.—The St. Louis Republican of May 21 contains the following:

We understand that on Saturday last on his way from St. Louis, where he had been attending a meeting of the Board of Directors of the North Missouri Railroad Company, the Hon. James S. Rollins fell into the hands of a band of guerillas some [illegible] about twelve miles north of Columbia. He was the only passenger in the mail stage. Four of these desperadoes came out of the bush on the roadside, having together three large navy revolvers. Drawing and cocking them [illegible] they halted the stage and then ordered Mr. R. to get out [illegible] instantly. Being unarmed [illegible] the stage [illegible] clothes [illegible] gold watch [illegible] and guard, a considerable sum of money was taken from his person and divers other small articles.

They also broke and robbed the express and other [illegible] which were on the stage. These were young rascals from twenty to twenty five years of age. One of them, the leader of the gang, wore a large red feather in his hat, and called himself Jim Jackson. He was insulting to Mr. R., pointing a cocked pistol at him, and threatening to shoot him, and once striking him with a pistol for some remark of censure which he made to him. After possessing themselves of everything valuable which he had, even taking his hat, they mounted their horses and rode off. Mr. R. was not known to them—he passed under a fictitious name.

The Copperhead papers are of late endorsing some of the original Abolitionists because the latter do not desire Jeff. Davis and others to be capitally punished. How do they like the following sentiment from Wendell Phillips?

For my part I do not believe in capital punishment at all, but it seems to me if this nation captures Jefferson Davis and does not hang him it will be recreant to itself and false to humanity. If we are to punish any one let us take this colossal criminal whose garments are dyed with blood of thousands rather than the less conspicuous and perchance misled. Thank God, my friends, that we have lived to see this day that slavery is destroyed, and that blissful days are in store for us, our children and all for all mankind.

THE COLORED MEN OF NORTH CAROLINA.—NEW YORK, May 18.—The petition circulated among the colored people of North Carolina, to be presented to President Johnson, after referring to the friendship of the late President Lincoln, the proverbial kindness of President Johnson to their own people, their love for the old flag, and the service they have performed both under and for it, ask that the elective franchise be extended to them, saying they cannot see the justice of denying that privilege to those that have been fighting for the country while it is freely given to men who have just returned from four years fighting against it. They call attention to the fact that up to 1835 free colored men voted, without detriment to the interests of the State.

Government is preparing to collect much of its postal revenue from delinquent debtor postmasters. When the rebellion broke out most of the 9,000 postmasters in the rebel States were largely in arrears for stamps and newspaper postage. By an act passed last winter the real estate of a postmaster and his securities may be seized by attachment.

Parties who have been through Georgia as far south as the Etowah river, represent that the destitution prevailing in that country is truly appalling. What few inhabitants remain there are almost starved to death, and for want of animals it is impossible for any of them to attempt to raise any crops.

General Grant and family reached Philadelphia on May 12th, and proceeded at once to the elegant mansion provided for them the liberality of the citizens. They were met at the mansion by a select circle of friends, who welcomed them to their new and permanent quarters.

The Plantation System to be Broken Up

Of the several classes of rebels [illegible] whom pardon is refused by the President, not the least considerable is composed of all whose wealth amounts to more than $20,000 and who willingly assisted the rebellion. No doubt some will deem the exception of this class an act of needless severity, and perhaps some others will declare it to be the extreme of injustice. But on inquiry we think it will be found that true wisdom suggested the adoption of the course that has been taken. There are some rebels of wealth who are no more guilty than others who have no possessions at all. But by the laws of Congress, the property of all is confiscated, and it works no hardship to be justly complained of, if some are not [illegible] to the rights they have forfeited, while others whose opportunities to do ill are greater and who are therefore wisely deemed more dangerous, are prohibited from enjoying privileges which they cannot legally claim, and which could now be conferred on them only by the voluntary grace of the Government. Since the possessions of all rebels are absolutely forfeited, the Government in restoring peace may take what course seems most conducive to its purposes, and may withhold or return this property just as it sees fit. An effort to excite a sympathy in behalf of those who are dispossessed of their lands and goods will be thwarted at the outset by recollecting that their deprivation is a just punishment for treason. In general, the wealthy men of the South have done the government more harm than any other class, and from the fact that their money and the influence it gave them, were employed in the service of the public enemy, there is every reason why their property should be confiscated, and themselves placed entirely beyond the protection of the laws.

Though the direct purpose of the President in excepting this class, is to punish the more powerful and guilty of the rebels, yet the effect of the exclusion from pardon, will reach further than the operative force of any merely temporary penalty could do. The design of the clause of the proclamation to which we are referring, is not to break up the system of land monopoly in the South, but this will be the final result of its operation. The proclamation deals the landed aristocracy of that section, a terrible blow. There could be no more desirable consummation than the complete destruction of every vestige of the old plantation system. If the lands of the South, like those of the North, were parceled out among an industrious people, there would now be no impediment in the way of a speedy increase in the population and wealth of that whole region. The division of lands into small parcels, which is to grow out of the confiscation of rebel estates, will not have the odious features of an agrarian law, but will appear to all loyal people, a perfectly justifiable method of procedure. It will also introduce an order of things more in conformity with our theory of government than was the system which has hitherto prevailed in the South. All experience teaches that a judicious division of lands into small portions, is a condition most favorable to human happiness and to the growth of civilization. A true political economy can commend no other system.

In getting rid of slavery we ought also to get rid of the plantation system which slavery created, and which in turn made slavery what it was. The non landholders of the South have for years been in a state of dependency which borders on actual servitude; the plantation despots being their masters hardly less than if they had been slaves. These poor people ought now to be set free from the thralls that have so far bound them. The negro, too, must live in some part of the country, and it would go far toward making him thrifty and independent to give him a chance to acquire a small piece of land for him to cultivate as his own. In parts of the South this is already done. The loyal negro who has fought for his country is at least as meritorious as the rebel who has fought against it.

We think it is very evident that much good will grow out of the destruction of the land monopoly of the South. To break it up forever is now quite possible. The necessity of punishing the leading rebels justifies the President in the course he has taken. The result of his action will be to destroy one of the most objectionable systems that ever prevailed in our country, and to prepare the way for harmony among the people by rendering their interior polity as nearly alike as possible throughout the whole country.

A HAPPY RIDDANCE.—A most excellent feature of the amnesty proclamation is, that it excepts from pardon, all who voluntarily left the Northern States to fight against the Government. This exception precludes the return to Oregon of a few persons, whose presence would be most offensive here. From California, great numbers of leading "Democrats" went South, and entered into the rebel service. It is estimated that not less than one thousand had the boldness to thus carry out the principles of their party. It was with much satisfaction that we learned that these traitors are excluded from the loyal States. If they do return they will all be indicted for treason. We can afford to pardon the people of the South for what they have done, but these rebel Democrats of the North cannot be forgiven. Now that they are out, let the doors of the loyal States be forever closed against them. All patriots are deeply grateful to President Johnson that they are forever clear of the company of this treasonable and murderous class.

A WITNESS AGAINST JOHN BULL.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune asserts that the person who for two years was Purser of the rebel ship Alabama, has been given a first class clerkship in the Land Office at Washington. He is said to be a true and loyal man. The Government will avail itself of his testimony in proving the destruction of American ships by the corsair. Indemnification for the losses thus sustained is to be insisted on from Great Britain, and the evidence the former Purser of the pirate can furnish, will be conclusive against that perfidious power which first equipped the Alabama and sent her to sea, and afterwards harbored her in every port which the rebel entered. There is little doubt but that John Bull will have to refund the money which his rebellious protégés plundered from us at his connivance, on the high seas.

LURKING IN THE MOUNTAINS.—The Shasta Courier says that Greathouse, brother of Ridgeley, of the Chapman pirate notoriety, is hiding in the northern part of California, a fugitive from justice, there being a warrant out for his arrest. It is a noteworthy fact that nearly all the leading "Democrats" on this coast, who are such violent sticklers for "Southern rights," have been found guilty of having committed crimes.

Boise and Owyhee

[illegible] CORRESPONDENCE [illegible]

PLACERVILLE, I. T., June 11th, 1865.

With an agreeable [illegible] the pleasantest season of the year, the overland journey from the Columbia river to this place is delightful [illegible] work as I came [illegible] over the road, at times [illegible]

ON SNAKE RIVER.

The river runs through a canyon just below Olds ferry, but above it for about one hundred miles, [illegible] as far as Salmon Falls, is navigable at all seasons of the year. [illegible] that indicated the [illegible] and determined that the thing was practicable. From Olds ferry where we crossed the river for some fifty miles we lay the worst part of our road. The river is beautiful from the hill where we first saw it, as all rivers do; but the shores are in all essentials the realization of desolation, only so far as man has sacrificed his comfort to gain, and made occasional stopping places, we cannot call them homes, beside it. There are occasional spots of grass, but of an indifferent quality, while the all pervading sage brush is the rule and has an almost exclusive rule at that. The passage of a stage and team through a sandy desert kicks up a most inevitable dust which the passenger receives the full benefit of. The wheels actually gather it by hands full and throw it as often in one's face as elsewhere. The road through Oregon was not disagreeable. Even the dust was not very annoying, but Idaho was inhospitable from the commencement. There are some good farms on the Weiser, which comes in about 16 miles above the ferry, and soon after crossing that, our course left Snake river and took up the Payette. There are some good farms on this stream, and unlike Snake river, which has no trees upon its banks, the Payette is lined with beautiful groves of cottonwood that are very grateful to the eye.

UP THE PAYETTE RIVER.

There is for part of the way a good road from the lower Payette to Boise Basin. It is somewhat hilly, but labor has made the hills passable, and any number of pack trains and heavy teams are continually climbing them. One great feature of the journey was the continual meeting with teams and wagons returning light, and the passing of those that were going up loaded. Camp fires shone at night in every eligible spot for a watering place, and even the desert of Snake river was enlivened by the passing teams and trains. The last eighteen miles of the journey was made on horseback, as the high water has in many places washed out the road as it winds up the canyon and wagons do not come through it. The proprietors say it will be ready for travel in ten days, but the appearance of the road and the number of hands employed on it induced me to extend the time for them to a month.

PLACERVILLE.

Times are not over brisk here now, and money is not any too abundant. The miners were in debt considerably in the spring I am told, and have been saving their dust to get out of debt. As a consequence they drink and gamble less, and drinking and gambling houses suffer. The fact is, that considerable gold is being taken out, but the miners have begun to realize that these diggings will not last forever and are less free with their small change as a consequence. There were two sporting men on the stage as we came up, both gentlemanly fellows and very pleasant traveling companions. At the Weiser they met an old acquaintance, who informed them that the Basin "wasn't worth a d—n any longer." According to his version the country was "gone in," and all the nice little "games" were "played." Our fellow passengers were a trifle alarmed I thought, but soon made up their minds that this man was not of much account, and not to be entirely relied upon. I am inclined to think there was some truth in his story, and that while times in the Basin are good enough in the main, the harvest time for the sports is over.

THE LATE MURDER.

I wrote you from the Express Ranch on Burnt river giving an account of the horrible murder lately committed near this place on the Centerville road. Soon after my arrival yesterday, I saw an excited crowd of several hundred men coming down the street with three men who were arrested as principals or accessories to the act. One old fellow appeared the personification of a desperate [illegible]. I studied his phiz, and for a moment wished that I had him for a picture. The three are unable to give any account of themselves. One of them was walking with the murdered man and the examination has resulted in eliciting evidence strongly against them. It is not yet completed, but still the people about here, when it is over, feel a perfect conviction of their guilt. They will save the officers of the law further trouble and expense on their account.

HILL BEACHY [illegible]

I have seen a letter from Ruby city lately received here, which speaks of the arrival there of Hill Beachy's stages by way of the Humboldt route. It was rumored that the party had difficulty with the Indians on the road, and had been whipped by them. Three soldiers who were in the company were killed. The same gentleman who showed me the letter said other parties who had come lately from Owyhee make no mention of Beachy's arrival, and the report may be erroneous. There is little said here about the road to California. [illegible] persons have come here from there direct though they have arrived at Idaho city. I shall remain here a few days and then go to that place.

SOMETHING ABOUT EATABLES.

[illegible] of hotels at Placerville, and quite an effort is made by the proprietors to make their boarders comfortable and feed them well. Along the road, we had generally good living, or at least as good as could be expected. Some places really excelled, and some were as ingenious in spoiling grub as those were in making it palatable. An old Missouri gentleman who lives on the Payette bears off the palm, and has left an impression on my mind that a Christmas dinner couldn't efface. There was soup served in a yellow earthen plate which a fellow passenger fitly compared to a mud [illegible] the bread was strongly suggestive of saleratus, and the [illegible] the crust was the only thing recognizable, while the remainder of it was a near relative to the soup. It is wonderful how such people attain long life and set the laws of physic at defiance.

We stopped at a most horrible place when we were climbing into the Basin. The breakfast was [illegible] and indigestible and not far from the [illegible] sundry parts of what had been a "cow brute" in a highly advanced stage of putrescence. [illegible] not very appetizing, though [illegible]. Inside the house furniture was scant. The bar room was adorned with a plain counter behind which stood two [illegible] several tumblers, while the remaining fixtures were several old saddles, and a shelf on which a checker board was placed. Several empty whisky kegs and the [illegible] completed the furniture. We were detained at this interesting place several hours in a hot sun and [illegible].

Shall write you the general news as soon as I am rested.

Gen. Butler's programme for reconstruction is as follows: No more slavery. Constitutional acknowledgment by each State that there can be no right of secession, repudiation of the rebel war debt, and the complete disfranchisement of all who have held civil or military offices under the rebel government.

A Washington despatch says President Johnson is exceedingly annoyed by the attacks upon Gen. Sherman in consequence of his armistice, and that he will take an early opportunity to put on record his high appreciation of the General's military achievements.

The thermometer reached 82 yesterday and 80 to-day.

The mining stock market is more [illegible] to-day. Alpha advanced to $1,060 and Crown Point to $750. Yellow Jacket declined to $1,125, Savage and Belcher to $[illegible].

Legal tenders [illegible].

The steamer [illegible] from Victoria, arrived yesterday. The Victoria British Colonist has been badly sold by a bogus telegraph report dated at Washington, June 9th, purporting that Davis and Breckinridge were tried and convicted on the 8th and sentenced to be hung on the 9th. The report stopped just as the criminals were brought to the foot of the gallows. The sell probably originated with some persons at New Westminster, between which town and Victoria a strong rivalry exists.

MARKETS.—Flour moderate with some irregularity. Sales include extra at $[illegible]. Oregon country brands and re-sacked [illegible] $12 per bbl. Wheat—no transactions. Oats in demand—sales 400 gunnies Oregon Black at $1 45, 300 sacks coast $1 55, [illegible] sacks Bay at $[illegible]. Barley—firm in view of light supplies for the market; sales of 500 bags [illegible] private, but an advance on previous prices. [illegible] Hay—[illegible] four wagons to day at $10 [illegible] 12 50 ton. Coffee—150 bags Java sold at [illegible]. Domestic liquors dull and depressed.

Arrived—bark John Bright, 150 days from Rio Janeiro via Valparaiso—cargo Coffee. Sailed June 17th, steamer Brother Jonathan for Victoria and Portland. June 18th, ship [illegible] for Puget Sound; Ship [illegible] and Bark Australia for Nanaimo, Italian bark [illegible] for Port Angelos.

From New Westminster.

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 19.—The work of stringing the wire of the Russian Telegraph Line was commenced to day in this city. A large force is employed and we will soon be in telegraphic communication with the mining camps of Cariboo and intermediate towns.

No arrivals since the last report. Thermometer 78 in the shade.

POSITIVE FALSEHOOD.—The Sacramento Union is a journal of so reliable a character that it is not often found to publish erroneous statements. The vigilance and acumen of its editors usually prevent it from being imposed upon by Munchausen stories. In its issue of the 5th of June, however, we find a letter containing statements about the Columbia river route to the mines of Idaho, that is so complete a fabrication and so grossly false that we wonder the Union did not detect its mendacity. There can be no possible excuse for the falsity of the assertion that two months are required to perform the journey from San Francisco via Portland, to Idaho. There was a time during the winter when the river was obstructed by ice, that travel was interrupted. But it must be recollected that it was then impossible to reach Idaho City from San Francisco by any route whatever. At any time when travelers can go from California to Idaho by any other route they can go by way of the Columbia river. The cost of travel on the river boats is [illegible] exaggerated by this correspondent; the story he tells is deliberately false. The writer says that freight from Umatilla to Boise was twenty cents per pound. During the spring it has been carried for half that sum. This snarling falsifier accuses this paper of having made untruthful statements about the cost of travel by way of Portland to the mines. Everything this paper has published about the matter is being verified every day. From the manner in which the Union correspondent grumbles at the trip and growls about the mines after he has reached them, we think it may be safely said that he is one of those unfortunate wretches whose hypochondriac condition will cause him to regard with a cynical snarl the promises of the happiest state that man is [illegible].

The Plantation System to be Broken Up

Of the several classes of rebels to whom pardon is refused by the President, one of the most considerable is composed of all whose wealth amounts to more than $20,000 and who willingly aided the rebellion. No doubt some will [illegible] the exception of this class as an act of needless severity, and perhaps some others will declare it to be the extreme of injustice. But on inquiry we think it will be found that true wisdom suggested the adoption of the course that has been taken. There are some rebels of wealth who are no more guilty than others who have no possessions at all. But by the laws of Congress the property of all is confiscated, and it works no hardship to be justly complained of if some are restored to the rights they have forfeited, while others whose opportunities to do ill are greater and who are therefore wisely deemed more dangerous, are prohibited from enjoying privileges which they can not legally claim, and which could now be conferred on them only by the voluntary grace of the Government. Since the possessions of all rebels are absolutely forfeited, the Government in restoring peace may take what course seems most conducive to its purposes and may withhold or return this property, just as it sees fit. An effort to excite a sympathy in behalf of those who are dispossessed of their lands and goods will be thwarted at the outset by recollecting that their deprivation is a just punishment for treason. In general, the wealthy men of the South have done the government more harm than any other class, and from the fact that their money and the influence it gave them, were employed in the service of the public enemy, there is every reason why their property should be confiscated, and themselves placed entirely beyond the protection of the laws.

Though the direct purpose of the President in excepting this class, is to punish the more powerful and guilty of the rebels, yet the effect of the exclusion from pardon, will reach further than the operative force of any merely temporary penalty could do. The design of the clause of the proclamation to which we are referring, is not to break up the system of land monopoly in the South, but this will be the final result of its operation. The proclamation deals the landed aristocracy of that section, a terrible blow. There could be no more desirable consummation than the complete destruction of every vestige of the old plantation system. If the lands of the South like those of the North, were parceled out among an industrious people, there would now be no impediment in the way of a speedy increase in the population and wealth of that whole region. The division of lands into small parcels, which is to grow out of the confiscation of rebel estates, will not have the odious features of an agrarian law but will appear to all loyal people, a perfectly justifiable method of procedure. It will also introduce an order of things more in conformity with our theory of government than was the system which has hitherto prevailed in the South. All experience teaches that a judicious division of lands into small portions, is a condition most favorable to human happiness and to the growth of civilization. A true political economy can commend no other system.

In getting rid of slavery we ought also to get rid of the plantation system which slavery created, and which in turn made slavery what it was. The non landholders of the South have for years been in a state of dependency which borders on actual servitude, the plantation despots being their masters hardly less than if they had been slaves. These poor people ought now to be set free from the thralls that have so far bound them. The negro, too must live in some part of the country, and it would go far toward making him thrifty and independent to give him a chance to acquire a small piece of land for him to cultivate as his own. In parts of the South this is already done. The loyal negro who has fought for his country is at least as meritorious as the rebel who has fought against it.

We think it is very evident that much good will grow out of the destruction of the land monopoly of the South. To break it up forever is now quite possible. The necessity of punishing the leading rebels justifies the President in the course he has taken. The result of his action will be to destroy one of the most objectionable systems that ever prevailed in our country and to prepare the way for harmony among the people by rendering their interior polity as nearly alike as possible throughout the whole country.

A HAPPY RIDDANCE.—A most excellent feature of the amnesty proclamation is, that it excepts from pardon, all who voluntarily left the Northern States to fight against the Government. This exception precludes the return to Oregon of a few persons, whose presence would be most offensive here. From California, great numbers of leading "Democrats" went South, and entered into the rebel service. It is estimated that not less than one thousand had the boldness to thus carry out the principles of their party. It was with much satisfaction that we learned that these traitors are excluded from the loyal States. If they do return they will all be indicted for treason. We can afford to pardon the people of the South for what they have done, but those rebel Democrats of the North cannot be forgiven. Now that they are out, let the doors of the loyal States be forever closed against them. All patriots are deeply grateful to President Johnson that they are forever clear of the company of this treasonable and murderous class.

A WITNESS AGAINST JOHN BULL.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune asserts that the person who, for two years was Purser of the rebel ship Alabama, has been given a first class clerkship in the Land Office at Washington. He is said to be a true and loyal man. The Government will avail itself of his testimony in proving the destruction of American ships by the corsair. Indemnification for the losses thus sustained is to be insisted on from Great Britain, and the evidence the former Purser of the pirate can furnish will be conclusive against that perfidious power which first equipped the [illegible] and sent her to sea, and afterwards harbored her in every port which the rebel entered. There is little doubt but that John Bull will have to refund the money which his rebellious protégés plundered from us at his connivance, on the high seas.

LURKING IN THE MOUNTAINS.—The Shasta Courier says that Greathouse, brother of Ridgley of the Chapman pirate notoriety, is hiding in the northern part of California, a fugitive from justice there being a warrant out for his arrest. It is a noteworthy fact that nearly all the leading "Democrats" on this coast, who are such violent sticklers for 'Southern rights,' have been found guilty of having committed crimes.

PLACERVILLE, I. T., June 10th, 1865.

[illegible] BURNT RIVER [illegible]

With [illegible] ing the pleasant season of the year the overland [illegible] river to this place [illegible] such to [illegible] last week as [illegible] over the road, at times [illegible] Burnt river, will [illegible] the universal dreariness of [illegible] There were some improvements [illegible] visible and the [illegible] that has been made down its deep canyon has [illegible] Burnt river of those terrors and that dread which the emigrant used to feel in apprehension [illegible] though the bleaching remains of those [illegible] are still visible. Bleaching bones and whitened skulls will long remain as mementoes of the travelers who journeyed here in early days. Leaving Burnt river at Miller's Ranch [illegible] popular places on the road we took our way over a divide and in a short time [illegible] down from its summit upon the vast expanse of desert wilderness that Snake river calls its own.

SNAKE RIVER.

Snake river runs through a canyon just below Olds ferry, but [illegible] for about one hundred and [illegible] some claim as far as Salmon Falls, is navigable at all seasons of the year. I saw no appearances that indicate the speedy [illegible] place to run up the river [illegible] but we canvassed the subject as we passed [illegible] and determined that the thing was practicable. From Old's ferry, where we crossed the river for some fifty miles above lay the worst part of our road. The river looks beautiful from the hill where we first saw it as all rivers do, but its shores are in all essentials, the realization of desolation only so far as man has [illegible] to gain, and such are [illegible] stopping places we cannot call them homes, [illegible]. There are occasional spots of grass but of an indifferent quality, while the all pervading sage brush is the rule and has an almost exclusive rule at that. The passage of a stage and [illegible] through a sandy desert, kicks up a most miserable dust which the passenger receives the full benefit of. The wheels actually gather it by hands full and throw it as often in one's face, as elsewhere. The road through Oregon was not disagreeable. Even the dust was not very annoying, but Idaho was inhospitable from the commencement. There are some good farms on the Weiser which comes in about 10 miles above the ferry and soon after crossing that our course left Snake river and took up the Payette. There are some good farms on this stream and unlike Snake river, which has no trees upon its banks the Payette is lined with beautiful groves of cottonwood that are very grateful to the eye.

UP THE PAYETTE RIVER.

There is for part of the way a good road from the lower Payette to Boise Basin. It is somewhat hilly but labor has made the hills passable, and any number of pack trains and heavy teams are continually climbing them. One great feature of the journey was the continual meeting with teams and wagons returning light, and the passing of those that were going up loaded. Camp fires shone at night in every eligible spot for a watering place, and even the desert of Snake river was enlivened by the passing teams and trains. The last eighteen miles of the journey was made on horseback, as the high water has in many places washed out the road as it winds up the canyon and wagons do not come through it. The proprietors say it will be ready for travel in ten days, but the appearance of the road and the number of hands employed on it induced me to extend the time for them to a month.

PLACERVILLE.

Times are not over brisk here now and money is not any too abundant. The miners were in debt considerably in the spring I am told and have been saving their dust to get out of debt. As a consequence they drink and gamble less and drinking and gambling houses suffer. The fact is that considerable gold is being taken out, but the miners have begun to realize that these diggings will not last forever and are less free with their small change as a consequence. There were two sporting men on the stage as we came up both gentlemanly fellows and very pleasant traveling companions. At the Weiser they met an old acquaintance, who informed them that the Basin "wasn't worth a d—n any longer." According to his report the country was "gone in" and all the nice little "games" were "played." Our fellow passengers were a trifle alarmed I thought but soon made up their minds that this man was not of much account, and not to be entirely relied upon. I am inclined to think there was some truth in his story and that while times in the Basin are good enough in the main, the harvest time for the sports is over.

THE LATE MURDER.

I wrote you from the Express Ranch on Burnt river, giving an account of the horrible murder lately committed near this place on the Centerville road. Soon after my arrival yesterday I saw an excited crowd of several hundred men moving down the street with three men who were arrested as principals or accessories to the act. One of them appeared the personification of a desperado. [illegible] I studied his phiz and for a moment wished that I had him for a picture. The three are unable to give any account of themselves. One of them was walking with the murdered man [illegible] examination has resulted in [illegible] strongly against them. It is not yet [illegible] the people [illegible] of their guilt, they will save the officers of the law further trouble and expense on their account.

[illegible] HEARD FROM.

I have seen a letter from Ruby city lately received here which speaks of the arrival there of [illegible] stage by way of the [illegible]. It was rumored that the party had difficulty with the Indians on the road, and had been whipped [illegible]. Three soldiers who were in the company were killed. The same gentleman who showed me the letter [illegible] other parties who had come in from Owyhee make no mention of [illegible] the report may be true. There is little said here about the road to California. No persons have come here from there direct though they have arrived at Idaho city. I shall remain here a few days and then go to that place.

SOMETHING ABOUT EATABLES.

I find good hotels at Placerville and quite an effort is made by the proprietors to make their boarders comfortable and feed them well. Along the road, we had generally good living, or at least as good as could be expected. Some places really excelled and some were as ingenious in spoiling grub as others were in making it palatable. An old Missouri gentleman who lives on the Payette bears off the palm and has left an impression on my mind that a Christmas dinner couldn't efface. There was served up on a well worn earthen plate which a fellow passenger fitly compared to a map [illegible] pudding [illegible] pot pie, the bread was strongly suggestive of saleratus, and the pie — well the pie was indescribable, the crust was the only thing recognized while the remainder of it was a near relative to the soup. It is wonderful how such people attain long life and set the laws of physics at defiance.

We stopped at a most horrible place when we were climbing into the Basin. The breakfast was [illegible] tough and indigestible and [illegible] on the front door by sundry parts of what had once been a cow brute, in a highly advanced stage of putrescence. The grinning head lent an aroma to the whole neighborhood not very appetizing though of high flavor. Inside the house furniture was scant. The bar room was adorned with a painted counter, behind which stood two bottles and several [illegible] while the remaining fixtures were several old saddles, and a shelf [illegible] on which the [illegible] Several empty whisky kegs and the [illegible] completed the furniture. We were detained at this interesting place several hours in a hot sun and [illegible].

Shall write you the general news as soon as I am posted.

Gen. Butler's programme for reconstruction is as follows: No more slavery. Constitutional acknowledgment by each State that there can be no right of secession, repudiation of the rebel [illegible] and the complete disfranchisement of all who have held civil or military offices under the rebel government.

A Washington dispatch says President Johnson is exceedingly annoyed by the attacks upon Gen Sherman in consequence of his armistice, and that he will take an early opportunity to put on record his high appreciation of the General's military achievements.

The trial of D. O. McCarthy, of the Flag newspaper, on the charge of libeling James Nisbet of the Bulletin, was specially set for to-morrow. The defendant's counsel asked for a longer time, and stated that they ought to submit a motion for a change of venue.

Jeanne Casel, for robbing a fellow passenger of two hundred and fifty dollars was ordered to pay a fine of one hundred dollars [illegible] the county Jail for three months.

Private advices from Lapaz June 4th report the Indians so troublesome that communication between there and Prescott was dangerous even with a military escort. Mr. [illegible] Cunningham [illegible] the latter was murdered and a second narrowly escaped from a body of seventy five Indians who attacked him and his [illegible] near North Kane, killing one and dangerously wounding another.

The thermometer reached 82° yesterday and 80 to-day.

The mining stock market is mixed to-day. Alpha advanced to $1,000 and [illegible] $7.50. Yellow Jacket declined to $1,1[illegible]. Savage and Belcher to $600.

Legal tenders, 71½@72.

The steamer Sierra Nevada from Victoria, arrived yesterday. The Victoria British Colonist has been badly [illegible] with a [illegible] telegraph report dated at Washington, June 9th, purporting that Davis and Breckinridge were tried and convicted on the 8th and sentenced to be hung on the 9th. The report stopped just as the criminals were brought to the foot of the gallows. The sell probably originated with some persons at New Westminster between which town and Victoria a strong rivalry exists.

MARKETS.—Flour moderate with some irregularity; sales include extra at $11. Oregon country brands [illegible] Chile $12 [illegible]. Wheat—no transactions. Oats in demand—sales 100 [illegible] Oregon [illegible] 300 sacks coast, [illegible] Barley [illegible] the market [illegible] Hay [illegible] Coffee—150 bags Java [illegible] domestic [illegible] dull and depressed.

Arrived—bark John H. Ireland, [illegible] days from Rio Janeiro via Valparaiso [illegible]. Sailed June 17th, steamer [illegible] for Victoria and Portland. June 18th, ship [illegible] and [illegible] bark [illegible] for Port Angeles.

From New Westminster.

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 12.—The work of stringing the wire of the Russian Telegraph Line was commenced to-day in this city. A large force is employed and we will soon be in telegraphic communication with the mining camps of Cariboo. [illegible]

No arrivals since the last report. Thermometer 78 in the shade.

[illegible] The Sacramento [illegible] reliable [illegible] as usually pre[illegible] by Munchausen [illegible]. In its issue of the 8th of June [illegible] a letter [illegible] the Columbia river route to the mines of Idaho that is a composite fabrication and so grossly false that we would [illegible]. There can be no possible excuse for the falsity of the assertion that two months are required to perform the journey from San Francisco via Portland to Idaho. There was a time during the winter when the river was obstructed by ice that travel was interrupted. But it must be recollected that it was then impossible to reach Idaho city from San Francisco by any route whatever. At any time when travelers [illegible] by any other route [illegible] the Columbia river. [illegible] the story he tells [illegible] false. The writer says that freight from Umatilla to Boise was twenty cents per pound. During the spring it has been carried for half that sum. This snarling [illegible] this paper [illegible] untruthful statements about the cost of travel by way of Portland to the mines. Everything that paper has published about the matter is being verified every day. From the manner in which the [illegible] correspondent grumbles about the trip and growls at all the mines after he has reached them, we think it may be safely said that he is one of those unfortunate wretches who [illegible] condition will cause him to regard with a jaundiced eye [illegible] the happiest state [illegible].

Extra Billy Smith, late rebel Governor of Virginia, is now demented. [illegible]. A most elegant and appropriate dictionary.

Lone Fir Cemetery.—The Democratic [illegible] thinks we were mistaken [illegible] any similar position [illegible] stones in the East Portland cemetery [illegible] the opinion that [illegible] except [illegible] pieces of sculpture which [illegible] thoughtlessly taken away by [illegible]. We trust [illegible] are correct as it would [illegible] and others interested [illegible] wrong [illegible]. Our first impression [illegible] of boys [illegible] in their work of devilry [illegible] we now learn that was [illegible] who erected it [illegible] was damaged by being [illegible] by an accident [illegible] are sometimes troubled by cattle [illegible] having the gates [illegible] suppose that some [illegible]. While on this [illegible] is now nearly time when this [illegible] steps in regard to a public cemetery [illegible], improve it [illegible] of it, and allow people to treat the [illegible] and friends with that respect [illegible] hoped that some place [illegible] the security of our dead [illegible] in that direction by the [illegible] to the East Portland grounds [illegible] the difficulties attending the [illegible] but that the grounds [illegible] owned by him for ten [illegible] of all [illegible] and easily [illegible] the trouble in [illegible] subject of the [illegible] the Council and [illegible] entertained the hope that [illegible] done to secure grounds [illegible]. Nothing has been [illegible] is sadly wanting repairs. [illegible] be procured to any better [illegible] the citizens who [illegible] they make a stirring appeal [illegible] measures in obtaining the [illegible] grounds, and that the [illegible] settle the question [illegible] at the East Portland cemetery [illegible] people are going in that direction [illegible] of death [illegible] place of burial in future [illegible] private speculation [illegible] city, and improving it in a manner [illegible] creditable to the people [illegible]. It is a matter which has been [illegible].

[illegible] of Ice.—Yesterday being an intolerably [illegible] day, and election day at that, caused an excessive [illegible] the water, and we observed last evening a large [illegible] of persons laboring under great pain and suffering [illegible] or mental prostration in consequence [illegible] use of the article, we suppose. Thinking [illegible] dangers attending the use of ice water [illegible] and indeed generally throughout the [illegible] we came upon the following suggestions relative [illegible] of use of ice from Hall's Journal, which [illegible] for our people to peruse. We should have [illegible] in summer, to be of service to those [illegible] electioneering yesterday [illegible] to community at large [illegible]. [illegible] one ought to drink ice water [illegible] "inflammations of the stomach and bowels and [illegible] sudden death. The temptation to drink is [illegible] in summer, to use it at all with any safety [illegible] should take but a single swallow at a time [illegible] from the lips for half a minute, and then [illegible], and so on. It will be found that in [illegible] becomes disagreeable after a few mouthfuls [illegible] hand, ice itself may be taken as freely [illegible] not only without injury, but with the most [illegible] advantage in dangerous forms of disease. If [illegible] of a pea or bean, and swallowed as freely [illegible] without much chewing or crushing between the teeth, it will often be efficient in checking [illegible] of diarrhea and has cured violent cases of [illegible]. A kind of cushion of powdered ice kept [illegible] has allayed violent inflammation of the [illegible] fearful convulsions induced by too [illegible] there. All inflammations, internal or external [illegible] subdued by the application of ice [illegible] It is converted into steam and rapidly [illegible] the extra heat, and also diminishes the [illegible] blood in the vessels of the part. A [illegible] will often arrest violent bleeding [illegible] drink any ice cold liquid at meals retards [illegible] the body, and has been known to induce [illegible] internal congestion."

[illegible].—The committee of arrangements for the Fourth of July met on Saturday evening [illegible] on music reported that they had secured [illegible]. The committee on grounds reported that [illegible] selected the grove back of the Academy and [illegible] Carter's farm, as the grounds for the oration and [illegible]. On motion it was ordered that the Sabbath [illegible] denominations be notified [illegible] upon for the exercises that they may have [illegible] swings, etc. Everything promises well [illegible] and glorious celebration. It is understood the [illegible] introducing as a new feature in the [illegible] stations of the different [illegible] printing press and sewing machines [illegible] in active operation. A contract has [illegible] into with Mr. Geo. Hughes, pyrotechnist [illegible] large and fine display of Fireworks, equal to [illegible] on the coast. San Francisco [illegible] also proposed to have a [illegible] by the committee, where everybody can [illegible] the shade and enjoy themselves.

[illegible] Jonathan.—The press report of the [illegible] the steamship Brother Jonathan on Saturday [illegible] San Francisco, as published yesterday [illegible] that she would touch at Victoria first [illegible] with the previous report [illegible] have a full understanding of the matter [illegible] our newly elected Councilman from the Third [illegible], and the obliging telegraph operator [illegible] the question [illegible] manager [illegible] of San Francisco [illegible] to [illegible] a somewhat [illegible] Jonathan goes to Portland first [illegible] which we look for [illegible] morning, and very likely [illegible] evening via Victoria to San Francisco.

Congregational Church Edifice.—We are [illegible] that Capt. John H. Couch and his estimable lady [illegible] two lots on F street for the purposes of the [illegible] of a new Congregational Church edifice, and that [illegible] has already been subscribed [illegible] enterprise for entering upon the work of building [illegible]. The donation is a liberal one, and [illegible] of the united efforts of the residents [illegible]. We hope to see a fine building soon erected upon [illegible] bestowed.

[illegible] it Find Him?—A letter [illegible] at the [illegible] Portland, indicating its setting out on a long [illegible], if it follows the directions inscribed [illegible] of its owner. We give the [illegible] "Patrick or James O'Rourke, Portland [illegible] Walla, Canyon City, Boise City, Idaho [illegible] in Oregon or Washington Territory." The [illegible] is that Patrick or James will be in receipt of [illegible] if he is alive and kicking, at some future [illegible] charges of [illegible] due 3, [illegible] printed on the [illegible] as there is no room left on its face [illegible] of the Postmaster.

[illegible].—Mr. G. Tibbetts of East Portland [illegible] last, plucked from his strawberry beds [illegible] less than one-seventh of an acre of ground [illegible] of the delicious ripe fruit, and yesterday [illegible] one hundred and two pounds as the product [illegible] The yield from his beds has been [illegible] beautiful for the season [illegible] can be produced [illegible] beautiful [illegible].

[illegible] Soap.—[illegible] review of Saturday [illegible] soap [illegible] has advanced to [illegible] made in this city [illegible] for general purposes.

Fourth of July Fireworks.—The [illegible] by the [illegible] Fourth of July [illegible] Chamber at [illegible] is requested. [illegible]

Petroleum.—A Philadelphia writer [illegible] that "It is a vegetable oil which is [illegible] found in the Pacific Ocean by the decomposition of sea plants; and mixed with salt and water, [illegible] the open Polar Sea, discovered by Dr. Kane, and keeps it from freezing!"

The President's Assassin.—The New York [illegible] relates some interesting facts touching [illegible] Corbett, who shot [illegible] He was a [illegible] Fulton Street Meeting, and [illegible] He [illegible] a Dutch man who attends meeting [illegible] veteran [illegible] the regiment [illegible] for [illegible] by the [illegible] the [illegible] "I have seen [illegible] against swearing [illegible] the Lord. [illegible] parade in Lankin Square [illegible] nothing he did [illegible] Corbett stepped out [illegible] He was of course put under arrest [illegible] the time for which he [illegible] o'clock at night [illegible] He gave notice that he should [illegible] He was on picket [illegible] and marched off [illegible] court martial and sentenced to [illegible] The order was executed [illegible] regiment. Nothing daunted [illegible] He was [illegible] of the New York Sixteenth who were [illegible] Mosby near Culpepper. All surrendered except Corbett [illegible] with his revolver [illegible] He killed seven men before [illegible] surrendered. He brought his man down every time he fired, and as each rebel fell he [illegible] just as he used [illegible] in the Fulton street meeting.

The Secret Tribunal.—I am informed by a gentleman just returned from Washington, and [illegible] in a position to be well informed as to the [illegible] that the prosecution try the assassination [illegible] before a secret Military Commission was fully discussed in Cabinet meeting, and that [illegible] of the Administration, from the President down, concurred in the decision in favor of the tribunal named. The reasons upon which that conclusion was based are not given, but it is claimed that they are considered by the Executive [illegible] and that they will so appear to the country when the time for publishing them arrives. No wise patriot can help hoping that this may prove true, for the trials are in progress already, and it is sincerely to be hoped that their exception [illegible] character may be so entirely justified as to leave no stain or shadow of suspicion upon the National record. While then we abate nothing of the general principles laid down in our objections to extra constitutional remedies now that the rebellion is at an end, we can afford to wait patiently to see whether the case in hand is a justly exceptional one. If it proves to be so the country will applaud the nerve of the Executive in pursuing the course already marked out in the face of that outcry naturally to be expected from a people jealous of every encroachment of doubtful necessity. If the end [illegible] justify the means, the country will forgive an honest blunder even—just as it forgave Gen. Sherman's, but no one will ask that the error be [illegible] Correspondent [illegible]

[illegible] Wood.—The New York Times of May 15th thus speaks of this noted Secessionist:

It was announced recently that when Fernando Wood heard in London of the assassination of President Lincoln and the downfall of the rebellion, he determined to return home immediately and take part in the reorganization of political parties which he saw must follow. We apprehend he must have given up this notion. A large number of his political associates of the Democratic party are of opinion that his advice is not needed in the reorganization of that party, and his personal adherents think it will be much better for him to take no action which will embarrass him in joining whichever party may promise to be strongest. We believe, therefore, that he still intends to prosecute his journey to the Holy Land.

Money Plenty.—The Richmond Whig says:

Bank checks upon the several banks destroyed were yesterday still blowing about Main street, duly filled up and signed, and the negroes and boys were gathering them up by dozens for presentation when the bank resumed payment again. We saw a little fellow with seven checks perfect in every respect, aggregating upon their face some thirty-two thousand dollars. The youth could not resist the impression that he was immensely wealthy, with the bank upon which they were drawn in ruins before him, and payment forever stopped, it may be. Now, if ever, it can be said with truth by the holder of notes and checks based upon Confederate "securities—" He who steals my purse steals trash."

John H. Reagan, of Texas.—John H. Reagan, the rebel Postmaster General, captured with Jeff Davis, is a native of Sevier county, Tennessee, where he was born on the 8th of October, 1818. He is, consequently, in his forty-seventh year. He is a lawyer by profession, and has occupied many civic and military positions in Texas, to which State he emigrated many years since. In 1852 he was appointed Judge of the District Court of Texas, and in 1857 he was elected a member of the Thirty-fifth Congress, and was chosen to sit on several committees. He has filled, since 1861, the position of Postmaster General.

General Weitzel.—The Cincinnati Gazette publishes a letter from General Weitzel, denying the statement recently made by a Richmond correspondent that General Weitzel, while in command at Richmond, had, at the request of the wife of Robert E. Lee, withdrawn colored troops guarding her house and substituted white soldiers, and that he refused to march the colored troops through the city lest he might offend the inhabitants.

The assassin Sanders is no novice at the business. He was long connected with a party of [illegible] stilettoists in Italy, took active part in the scheme of Orsini to kill the Emperor Napoleon, advocated the plan of Mazzini for getting rid of the Pope, ordered an "infernal machine" at Colt's pistol factory, and tried to induce the workmen to swear it was part of an agricultural implement. A baser villain ever polluted the earth than George N. Sanders.

The Boston Journal's Washington correspondent says it is thought that General Sherman's course was influenced by his father-in-law, Thomas Ewing, of whom President Lincoln said that he was the only Northern statesman who had persistently urged him to revoke the Emancipation Proclamation.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis.—The present wife of the rebel chief, who was captured with him, is his second wife, the daughter of General Taylor having died many years since. Mrs. Davis' [illegible] name was Varina Howell. She is said to be a grand-daughter of Gen. Howell of New Jersey. She is still a young woman, with a family of four children.

It is stated as a remarkable fact that the late President had not a blood relation save his two boys.

Decay of the Teeth.—Arises from various causes, but principally it may be attributed to early neglect, ill health, or the injudicious use [illegible] powders [illegible] acids which give a momentary whiteness [illegible] teeth, while they [illegible] the enamel [illegible] extreme prevalence [illegible] known to [illegible] is principally to be attributed to long [illegible] research [illegible] the preservation [illegible] teeth and gums and [illegible] breath [illegible].

Trial of the Assassins

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 16, 1865.

This morning the members of the Court visited Ford's theater, for the purpose of examining and getting an accurate idea of the situation preparatory to the trial of Spangler. Some of [illegible] them.

The theater remains as it was on the night of the assassination, excepting that the Treasury flag, [illegible] Booth's spur caught [illegible], and the box which the President occupied [illegible] taken away. [illegible] stage [illegible] just as [illegible] with the [illegible] entrance [illegible] Ann [illegible] chair.

A close inspection of the excavation [illegible] in which the bar was inserted to [illegible] while the assassin was doing his [illegible] work revealed the fact that it had been [illegible] and concealed by a neatly [illegible] piece of wall paper pasted over it.

The theater was well guarded. It was lighted with gas and seemed most dismal and gloomy.

The prisoners looked somewhat more thoughtful than heretofore. Mrs Surratt studiously avoided observation, seemed much depressed and much of the time leaned forward on the [illegible] railing which has during the night been [illegible] alongside the wall and behind which she now sits with the rest.

Payne was extremely vigilant, tending forward eagerly to catch a glimpse at the newspapers which the counsel read in front of the dock, as if anxious to see what the world thinks of him.

O Laughlin was very much agitated for the first time, when identified by Major Knox as having been [illegible] upon the house of Secretary Stanton on the evening preceding the murder of Mr Lincoln. He changed color, swayed from side to side, breathed hard, perspired freely, and chewed his tobacco with great energy.

The negro testimony introduced to-day caused some shuffling among the prisoners, but there has been none more straightforward. It abounded in that graphic description and that warmth of manner that is characteristic of the race.

Maddox and Johnson seem to be considerably involved, but are still at large.

Sergeant Boston Corbett, who shot Booth, and Robinson, the soldier who saved Mr Seward, were present to-day.

The Court began last week by a consideration of all the testimony, oral and documentary, implicating Jeff Davis, Sanders & Co., and proceeded thence on Friday to an examination of witnesses in the cases of Booth's previous intentions and of his conspiring with others. On Saturday testimony was taken bearing on Harrold and Mrs Surratt. Yesterday Spangler and Harrold were most prominently before the Court. To-day Dr Mudd and O Laughlin received its attention. To-morrow Atzerott's turn will come, and possibly Payne's. The Seward family will testify to-morrow, and it is the purpose of the Secretary of State himself to be present as a witness.

The testimony has been taken very rapidly and the Judge Advocate General has shown great energy in the manner of conducting the examination. Indeed it is the expectation of the prosecution to submit its case during the present week.

Payne's pickax, the carbines of Booth and Harrold, Booth's mutilated boot, and the pistol and bullet with which he shot the President, were exhibited in the Court to-day. The ball was removed from envelopes in which it had been doubly sealed by the surgeon and Secretary of War.

Two large trunks filled with papers and effects belonging to the notorious George Sanders, were brought up from Richmond to-day and delivered to Secretary Stanton.

Among the witnesses examined in the assassination trial to-day, was Mr Browning, the Private Secretary of President Johnson, who said that on the evening of the assassination he found in his letter box a card addressed to President Johnson, with the words upon it: "Don't wish to disturb you; are you at home? J W Booth." Major Knox and Sergeant Hatter testified that on the 13th of April the residence of the Secretary of War was illuminated in honor of the recent victories. General Grant, his wife and others were in the house at the time. O Laughlin, whom the witnesses now identified, had intruded into the house, and in response to a question, said he was a lawyer, and very well acquainted with Secretary Stanton. O Laughlin appeared to be drunk, and made especial inquiry to have a look at General Grant. This was about nine o'clock.

Dr Stone testified as to the condition of President Lincoln after the shooting. The ball extracted from the head was exhibited, and he identified it by the initials "A L," which he had scratched upon it with a pen knife.

Sergeant Cobb, who, on the night of the assassination, was on duty at the Navy Yard bridge, testified as to Booth and his companion passing into Maryland. Booth, on being challenged, said he was going to his home in the country near Greentown.

The pistol picked up in the theater box was produced in Court and identified.

Lieut. Lovett, who went in pursuit of the assassin, gave an interesting account of overtaking him, and of the conduct of Dr. Mudd, who dressed Booth's leg. The boot which was cut from Booth's leg, was produced in Court. Inside was written, "J. Wilkes."

Officer Lloyd, who went in pursuit of the fugitives, said Dr Mudd at first denied seeing them, but afterwards recollected it was Booth's limb which he had set, the latter having been somewhat disguised.

THE SECRET TESTIMONY.

The testimony taken before the doors were opened to the reporters for the press, includes that of a man who was for several years in the military service of the so-called Confederate States, employed in the Topographical Department, on the staff of Gen Edward Johnson. He was in Virginia in the summer of 186 , 20 miles from Staunton. He became acquainted with three citizens of Maryland, one of whom was Booth, and another named Shepherd. He was asked by Booth and his companions what he thought of the progress of the Confederacy, and he told them that after such a chase as the rebels had then got from Gettysburg, he believed that it looked rather gloomy.

Booth told him that was nonsense, and added that, if we only act our part right, the Confederacy will gain its independence, and old Abe Lincoln must go up the spout. The witness understood by the expression (must go up the spout) that he must be killed. Booth said that as soon as the Confederacy was nearly whipped, that was the final resource to gain the independence of the Confederacy. The companions of Booth assented to his statements.

The witness was at the camp of the 2d Virginia Regiment, and there was a secret meeting of rebel officers on that occasion. He was not present at the meeting, but one of the officers that was stated its import. He believed Booth was at that meeting. The purpose was to send certain officers on detached service to Canada and the border to deliver prisoners, to lay Northern cities in ashes, and finally to get after members of the Cabinet and see the President. He heard that more than a thousand times. The name of the officer who gave him the information, was Lieut. Cockerell. Booth was associating with all the officers. He heard very often that the assassination of the President was an object finally to be accomplished. He had heard it freely spoken of in the streets of Richmond. This necessity was generally assented to in the service.

By the Judge Advocate:

Q—Will you state whether or not in the month of November last you were riding in the railroad cars of New York city (the Third avenue cars) and whether you observed that there were two men in the cars that attracted your attention, one of whom on leaving the cars dropped a letter which you picked up?

A—I was going down to the city. There were two gentlemen in the car. Whether they were in or not when I got in I am not confident. I overheard their conversation; they were talking most earnestly. One of them said he would leave for Washington the day after to-morrow, and the other was going to Newburgh or Newbern that night. They left the car; the man that was sitting near me pushed his hat forward and with the other pushed his whiskers at the same time; they were false whiskers. His front face was much darker than it was under the whiskers.

Q—Do you think you would recognize his features again? A. I think I should.

Q—(Exhibiting to the witness the photograph of Booth.) Look at that and say whether it recalls him to you?

A—The face is the same. He had a scar on his right cheek. It was something like a bite near the jaw bone.

Q. Did you judge from his conversation that he was a man of education and culture? A. He was a man of education and the other was not. The other's name was Johnson.

Q—Did you observe his hands? Did he seem to have been a man who had led a life of ease or not?

A. The hand that was ungloved was very beautiful; the other hand had a gauntlet on. They exchanged letters in the car. The one who had false whiskers put back the letters in his pocket, and I saw a pistol in his belt.

Q. Did any of the conversation fall on your ear? Were you near enough to hear it? A. I heard him say he would leave for Washington the day after to-morrow.

Q. That is the one who had the ungloved hand [illegible]? A. Yes, and the other was very angry because he had not [illegible] to Washington; he had been sent for to some [illegible]

Q. [illegible] very angry because it had [illegible] to go to Washington [illegible]? A. Yes, sir. I had better [illegible] the Nassau [illegible] [illegible] twenty-six [illegible] twenty [illegible] my daughter [illegible] She picked [illegible] When I went [illegible] when I was going with [illegible] my pocket book [illegible] letter [illegible] because of the cover [illegible]

Q. Are you certain that the envelope with the letters is [illegible] one of those men? A. I must [illegible] because I saw them exchange letters and there was no one else at that seat.

Q. Would you recognize the envelope if you were to see it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. (Exhibiting an envelope with two letters.) Look at that and see if it is the same envelope [illegible]? A. It is the same.

Q. Were the letters in that envelope as you now have them? A. Yes, sir.

The letters were then presented and read to the Commission as follows:

"Dear Louis:—The time has at last come that we have all so wished for, and upon you everything depends. As it was decided before you left, we were to cast lots. Accordingly we did so, and you are to be the Charlotte Corday of the nineteenth century. When you remember the fearful solemn vow that was taken by us, you will feel there is no drawback. Abe must die, and now. You can choose your weapons. The cup, the knife, the bullet. [illegible] Johnson, who will give this, has been like an enraged demon since the meeting, because it has not fallen upon him to rid the world of the monster. He says the blood of his gray haired father and his noble brother call upon him for revenge, and revenge he will have. If he cannot wreak it upon the fountain head he will upon some of the bloodthirsty Generals. Butler would suit him. As our plans were all concocted and well arranged, we separated, and as I am writing on my way to Detroit, I will only say that all rests upon you. You know where to find your friends. Your disguises are so perfect and complete that without one knew your face no police telegraphic dispatch would catch you. The English gentleman, Harcourt, must not act hastily. Remember he has ten days. Strike for your home, strike for your country; bide your time, but strike sure. Get introduced, congratulate him, listen to his stories. Not many more will the brute tell to earthly friends. Do anything but fail, and meet us at the appointed time within the fortnight. Inclose this note together with the one of poor Leenea. I will give the reason for this when we meet. Return by Johnson. I wish I could go to you, but duty calls me to the West; you will probably hear from me in Washington. Sanders is doing us no good in Canada. Believe me, your brother in love,

CHARLES SELBY."

St Louis, October 21, 1864.

Dearest Husband: Why do you not come home? You left me for ten days only, and you have now been from home more than two weeks. In that long time only sent me one short note—a few cold words—and a check for money which I did not require. What has come over you? Have you forgotten your wife and child? Baby calls for papa until my heart aches. We are so lonely without you. I have written to you again and again, and as a last resource yesterday wrote to Charlie, begging him to see you and tell you to come home. I am so ill, not able to leave my room; if I was I would go to you wherever you were, if in this world. Mamma says I must not write any more, as I am too weak. Louis, darling, do not stay away any longer from your heart-broken wife.

LEENEA.

Q—At what time in November did you pick up this envelope and these letters? A.—The day General Butler left New York. I cannot tell the precise date, but General Scott told me he had left that morning.

Q—Was that after the Presidential election in November? A.—Yes, sir.

Q—What did you do with these letters after you examined them and found their character? A.—I took them to General Scott, who asked me to read them to him. He said he thought it was of great importance, and asked me to take it to General Dix. I did so and gave it to General Dix.

Q—You say the men exchanged letters. Which was giving letters to the other, the large or the small man? A.—They exchanged twice; the larger one gave them to the one next to him, and he handed them back, and they were exchanged again.

Two other witnesses testified that they were in Canada and saw Booth in conversation with Geo. Sanders, and believed they also saw Booth talking with Clay, Holcombe and Thompson.

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

GLOUCESTER, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,

Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or a thing of [illegible] Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed Messrs. McK. & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc.—their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, faring, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servants,

out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

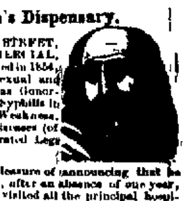
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Lock Hospital, Harrow road; St Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street, Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parkes of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are still ted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter, or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
